A fine LOT for Sale by private Contract, viz.

THAT valuable LOT of LAND in Charles-Town, known or diſtinguiſhed in the plan or model thereof, by the No. 191, ſituated at the weſt end and on the north ſide of Tradd-ſtreet, between the houſes of Alexander Fraſer, Eſq; and the late Captain Thomas Elliott, deceaſed, containing in front on ſaid ſtreet, fifty-eight feet, eight inches, or thereabouts, with the advantage of a paſſage; and in depth one hundred and forty-three feet, or thereabouts; whereon is a BRICK HOUSE deſigned for kitchens or two tenements that were intended to be built, and will ſtill ſerve thoſe purpoſes. This Lot has a fine ſouth proſpect of Aſhley-River, and as the proprietor of the oppoſite lot may perhaps make his front on Friend-ſtreet to be uniform with the other houſes built at the ſouth end and weſt ſide of that ſtreet, with the garden running eaſt and weſt, there will be no obſtruction to the ſoutherly air from Aſhley-River, which muſt be very agreeable in the hot months, and may prevent the communication of any malignant diſtemper that may rage in the interior parts of the town, or contagion ariſing from noxious effluvia. Its vicinity alſo to ſeveral good landing places on Aſhley-River, particularly the Sugar-Houſe-Creek, where a public market will no doubt be ſoon eſtabliſhed, will greatly enhance the value of all lands in that part of the town; alſo being ſituated in an excellent neighbourhood of reputable inhabitants, renders it not only more eligible, but ſecure againſt the danger of fire; and being a vacant lot, the purchaſer will have the ſatisfaction of erecting buildings thereon according to his own taſte for pleaſure or profit; the area or ground plot admitting either of one large manſion houſe of twelve rooms, or to be divided into two tenements of ſix rooms each, with land ſufficient behind for a kitchen garden to each. And, as houſes in that airy and pleaſant part of the town are ſeldom or ever empty, it will afford a certain good income quarterly.

The purchaſer may have one, two, three, or four years credit, giving bond, with approved perſonal ſecurity, and paying the intereſt punctually every year, and if he chuſes it, one third or one fourth part of the principal will be received annually, by which inſtalments, the purchaſe money will be eaſily and inſenſibly ſunk.

HOUSE of COMMONS of IRELAND.

Wednesday, December 11, 1771.

WHEN the Speaker had taken the Chair, the order of Thurſday, December 5th, was read, for the Houſe to reſolve itſelf into a Committee of the whole Houſe, to take into conſideration a motion for a reſolution concerning the new Board of Accounts, and the Speaker having left the Chair, there was a great diſpute who ſhould be Chairman of the Committee. The Courtiers were very ſtrenuous to have Sir Lucius O'Brien in the Chair, hoping by that means to deprive the patriotic party, not only of a vote, but of one of its moſt forcible Speakers and beſt ſupports. The artifice was ſeen through, and retaliated by an endeavour to place Mr. Malone there; the contention was great for ſome time, but at laſt it was quieted on both ſides, by voting Mr. Connolly to be Chairman.

The Committee now opened, and the expediency of creating a new Board of Commiſſioners, for ſettling the national accounts, was thoroughly canvaſſed and bolted even to the bran. Sir George Macartney, Mr. Malone, Mr. Prime Serjeant, Mr. Attorney General, Mr. Solicitor General, Mr. Forteſcue, Mr. O'Hara, and Mr. Foſter, were the principal ſpeakers in behalf of the expediency, and even the abſolute neceſſity of ſuch a meaſure. The arguments they chiefly uſed, were in ſubſtance as follows:

"There can be nothing more neceſſary for the intereſt of any nation, than that the monies granted by Parliament ſhould be faithfully applied to the uſes for which they are appropriated, and neither embezzled, nor profuſely and careleſsly ſquandered away, nor applied to any other purpoſe: This being granted, as it is a poſition none can deny, how can any nation know whether the public money is well or ill diſpoſed of, if the accounts thereof are not clearly and honeſtly ſtated? It is true the public accounts are regularly brought into the Houſe, and laid before a Committee of Accounts, and are ſeemingly juſt, that is to ſay, the groſs ſums, of each ſeveral account are ſtated, and the aggregate of the whole properly ſummed up, but how are we to know the juſt diſburſement of the ſeveral ſums, which make up the groſs ſum in ſuch accounts? They muſt be taken upon truſt, and the good opinion we entertain of the perſons who give them in, for ſundry of them, and very large ſums too, do not come under the inſpection of the preſent Commiſſioners of Accounts, nor the Auditor General, and indeed many capital articles have never been examined into, nor audited for 68 years. The laſt exact examination being in the year 1703.

"This being the caſe, it is certainly an abuſe to which ſome remedy ſhould be applied, and that remedy cannot be found in the preſent ſtate of the accounts. The preſent Commiſſioners of Accounts are the Lord Chancellor, the Chanceller of the Exchequer, and the three Barons of the Exchequer. Theſe five indeed overlook and examine the accounts of the Vice Treaſurer, but are not authoriſed by their commiſſions to take notice of any other, nor if they were ſo authoriſed could they find time to do it, the neceſſary duties of their reſpective offices taking up ſo much of their time, that they muſt either neglect the public accounts, or the public juſtice of the Courts wherein they preſide. Thus the Barrack Accounts, the Forage Accounts, the Accounts for removal of ſoldiers, embarkations, ſtabling and lodging, and a number of other articles remain unſettled, and we have only general heads and groſs ſums to depend upon. The public may be defrauded with impunity, as thoſe who expend the money for thoſe articles are ſubject to no diſquiſition, no controul. This is not meant as an inſinuation that any public officer has been guilty of any fraud or peculation; but ſince it is poſſible ſuch an evil may happen, it is neceſſary and expedient to provide againſt it; and this can be done only by a new Board of Commiſſioners, who having no other duty to perform, may apply themſelves to this.

"This meaſure therefore is very different from that of the new Commiſſioners of Cuſtoms and Exciſe. It was urged that the buſineſs of the revenue had been done by a few, therefore there was no occaſion for an encreaſe of their number------but here no man can ſay that the buſineſs has been done; on the contrary, it has been neglected for above threeſcore years. Therefore, thoſe gentlemen who voted againſt the new Revenue Board, may vote for this new Board of Accounts, without incurring the charge of inconſiſtency.

"It muſt be confeſſed, that ſome additional expence will accrue from this meaſure, but it is a neceſſary expence, that may be the ſaving of thouſands to the nation; and no man in private life will refuſe a ſalary to a ſteward, who, by overlooking his workmen, and examining his tradeſmens bills, can prevent any overcharge for work not done, or goods not delivered."

Theſe arguments ſeemed very plauſible till the ſpecioufneſs of them was expoſed by the friends of their country. Mr. Flood, Mr. Huſſey, Sir Lucius O'Brien, Sir William Mayne, Sir Edward Newenham, Mr. Ponſonby, Mr. Cramer, &c. ſpoke to the following effect:

"At a time when this nation is oppreſſed with a heavy debt, burthened with taxes, loſing its trade, decreaſing in its revenue, and ſwarming with beggars and multitudes of wretches who are not able to procure the common neceſſaries of life; to add to its burthen by a needleſs expence, which this kingdom is unable to bear, can be deemed nothing but a wanton ſtretch of power, and a copying after the Egyptian taſk-maſters, in forcing us to make brick without ſtraw. The nation hath hitherto felt no inconvenience from the preſent mode of ſtating the public accounts. And if it has been ſo evil as the Right Honourable Gentlemen would make us believe---where has been the honeſty or the good policy of the Lords Lieutenants for ſixty-eight years, to permit ſuch a growing evil-----but we may acquit them; no evil appears to have accrued, and it would be the height of folly to be at the charge of nine thouſand pounds a year, for what in the ſeſſions of 1753 was done for only ſeven hundred and twenty pounds. The gentlemen ſay, that the new Commiſſioners are to go through all the cheſt full of vouchers and other papers for ſixty-eight years paſt.---But pray to what end? Suppoſe any fraud is found out, who can be puniſhed for it? Can we open graves to find offenders? Can we puniſh the dead? But they may ſay perhaps, that we ought to guard againſt futurity; but cannot that be done without ſuch an enormous expence? The committee of Accounts of this Houſe are the proper auditors of all public accounts; a few ſittings extraordinary will do the buſineſs. But by their new mode, here are four Commiſſioners at five hundred a year each, wiſe men to be ſure they muſt be, and another Commiſſioner, who muſt be a wiſer man than the reſt, is to have eight hundred pounds a year, that makes two thouſand eight hundred pounds per annum. Then there muſt be a Secretary, and a number of Clerks, houſe for the Commiſſioners, and an office to do buſineſs; ſo that all together will not coſt leſs than at the rate of nine thouſand a year, to do what a couple of honeſt clerks might do. But it is plain, it is only a deſign to encreaſe dependants on government and ſecure a majority. To provide for thoſe who were diſappointed by our reſolution, againſt a new Board of Cuſtoms, and another of Exciſe. It were to be wiſhed, that we had the ſame law here, as they have in Britain, which renders certain Commiſſioners incapable to ſit in the Houſe. If this queſtion ſhould be divided in favour of this new Board; it is to be hoped no Members of this Houſe are named in the Commiſſion, but if there are, it would be but decent in them to leave the Houſe while the queſtion is debated; for as they are intereſted, they ought not to be judges in a cauſe wherein they are parties themſelves."

It is to be remarked, that, on reading the King's letters, it appeared, although five Commiſſioners, named therein, were Members of the Houſe, viz. Charles O'Hara, Eſq; firſt Commiſſioner, Gervaſe Parker Buſhe, Eſq; Major James St. John Jefferys, Eſq; Charles Tottenham, Eſq; and -------- Tigh, Eſq; and that in the firſt debate, Sir William Mayne, offered, with a true patriotic ſpirit, to execute the office of one of the Commiſſioners himſelf without any fee or reward, an example too good to be followed by thoſe venal ſouls who will enjoy the places.

The debate laſted till near three o'clock in the morning, when the Queſtion being put, the Houſe divided, and the numbers were againſt the Reſolution One Hundred and Twenty Four; for the Reſolution One Hundred and Nineteen. Thus the Court Party carried their point by a majority of only Five, which majority does not ſhew the ſenſe of the nation to be for the new Board, or that the Courtiers have cauſe to exult, ſince the majority would not have appeared, had not Mr. Barry, Mr. French, Mr. Poole, and ſeveral others, been abſent by reaſon of ſickneſs, and Counſellor Fitzgibbon's being taken ill in the Houſe. After he had ſpoken againſt the meaſure for near an hour, he was obliged to retire.

On the other ſide, it is remarkable, that the five gentlemen, whoſe votes carried the Queſtion, were the individual perſons appointed Commiſſioners; ſo that they may be truly ſaid to have been judges in their own caſe.

Such was the event of this grand Debate, which laſted near twelve hours. The galleries were crouded more than has been obſerved this whole ſeſſion, moſt of whom, Ladies as well as Gentlemen, waited till the Houſe adjourned.

CADIZ, November 29. The Flora French frigate, of thirty guns and two hundred men, put into this bay the 19th inſtant, with the Abbé Pingre, and the Chevalier de Borda, of the royal academy of Paris, on board, who have marine clocks of different artiſts, to determine the longitude at ſea. This ſhip will ſail again to-morrow, firſt for the Canary iſlands, from thence to Madera, Goree, St. Domingo, Martinico, and Miquelon. Her return will be by Iceland and Copenhagen.

CONSTANTINOPLE, November 18. The late bad ſucceſs of the Turkiſh armies is attributed to the revolt of the Janiſſaries, who, it is ſaid, being diſcontented for want of their pay, refuſed to fight, murdered their Aga and his lieutenant, plundered the military cheſt, which contained 5,000,000 pieces of eight, ſet fire to the camp, &c. after which they diſperſed themſelves different ways. The Grand Vizir, finding all was loſt, ſought his ſafety in flight, accompanied only by 60 perſons, and carried with him the ſtandard of Mahomet, which, without this precaution, would have infallibly fallen into the hands of the enemy. Notwithſtanding all theſe unhappy circumſtances, the Porte is ſo far from being diſperited, that it is taking all poſſible meaſures to remedy theſe evils. Accordingly, money has been ſent to Adrianople, and the Pacha, who commands there, has received orders to raiſe all the men that are capable of bearing arms, and march againſt the mutineers, in order to bring them back to their duty. There is a talk of depoſing the Grand Vizir, and ſupplying his place with Moegzoen Zade. Upwards of 3000 workmen are conſtantly employed in caſting cannon, and the utmoſt pains are taking to get every thing ready for the fleet and army.

November 19. We are all in the greateſt conſternation, on account of the great ſucceſs of the Ruſſians, who took the advantage of the late revolt amongſt our troops, and by that means got poſſeſſion of our camp, with all our cannon. But as we ſince learn that they are retiring to their main army, our fears are now ſubſiding. The Divan has informed his Highneſs the Grand Seignior, that the ſeaſon is too far advanced to aſſemble a large army immediately, as it would be vain to attempt to drive the Ruſſians from any of their poſts this winter. In the mean time, proviſions grow every day more ſcarce, ſo that we have too much reaſon to fear a riſing amongſt the inhabitants.

PETERSBURGH, December 10. By letters from Moſcow of the 22d of laſt month we learn, that the ringleaders of the late revolt, and their accomplices, to the number of three hundred, have received their ſentences: Two of them, who were convicted of aſſaſſinating the Archbiſhop, were hanged, as were two others out of ſixty-four, who drew lots who ſhould ſuffer. The remaining ſixty-two received the knout, had their noſes bored, and were ſent to the galleys for life. The reſt received puniſhments ſomewhat leſs rigorous. Theſe letters add that a very deep ſnow had fallen at Moſcow, ſucceeded by a hard froſt, which had a very happy effect in ſtopping the progreſs of the contagious diſtemper, of which, when theſe letters came away, not more than two hundred died in a day, ſo that they hoped ſoon to be quite free from that calamity.

PHILADELPHIA, FEBRUARY 20.

WILLIAM TRYON.

Fort-George, New-York, Feb. 13, 1772.

Extract from his Majeſty's Inſtructions to Governor TRYON.

"Whereas ſeveral inconveniencies have ariſen to our governments in the plantations, by gifts and preſents made to our Governors by the General Aſſemblies; for the preventing thereof for the future, It is our expreſs will and pleaſure, that neither you our Governor, commander in chief, or preſident of the council of our ſaid province of New-York, for the time being, do give your or their conſent to the paſſing any law or act, for any gift or preſent to be made to you or them, by the Aſſembly, and that neither you, nor they, do receive any gift or preſent from the Aſſembly or others on any account, or in any manner whatſoever, upon pain of our higheſt diſpleaſure, and of being recalled from that our government."

FEBRUARY 27. We hear from Holland, that Monſieur De Voltaire, has lately publiſhed a book called Repentance, in which he publicly confeſſes and recalls the horrible and abominable ſentiments and vices, he for ſo many years has been attached to.---Non damnoveris in errore impiarum; mortem confiteris.
